We call for a Parliamentary Select Committee to be established to investigate and report on the issue of False and Misleading Allegations of Child Abuse. Betrayal by the Labour Government in 2000

On Monday 8th May 2000, at the Dept of Health in Birmingham, Prof Rod Griffiths reported on the work of Dr David Southall with fragile babies at North Staffs Hospital.

There was an addendum to this report in which Prof Griffiths had interviewed all the key figures of the day who were questioning the surge in cases of supposed parental MSBP.

That night the Dept of Health promised Kirsty Wark of BBC2 Newsnight that there would be an enquiry into the validity of the diagnosis of MSBP.

INSTEAD THEY DEvised GUIDELINES FOR RECOGNISING IT.

We believe that this betrayal was as the result of intervention by Bruce Clarke et al.

Sunday Times Review January 2004

Jan Loxley, 53, of Finchley, north London, nearly lost her two children because of Meadow's theory of Munchausen's by proxy and launched a campaign against it.

“It was unbelievable.... both put on the at-risk register. They said if I didn't cooperate with the investigation they would take them into care.”

Having once worked in Whitehall, Loxley, a child development expert, was politically well connected. Her MP raised her case with social services and her children were removed from the at- risk register in March 2000.

Hodge 'ignored' warning on family-wrecking scandal | The Sunday Times

Jan Loxley, a former government adviser on childcare, wrote to both Hodge and Harman. She told them that families were being destroyed because of false accusations of child abuse based on theories expounded by Professor Sir Roy Meadow.

Betrayal by the Conservative Government & Coalition when they came into power in 2010

Many senior Tory & Lib Dem figures knew a great deal about false accusations of MSBP / FII against perfectly innocent parents. These included:

Tories:

Earl Frederick Howe and his former boss Dr Liam Fox
Timothy Loughton, Caroline Spellman & Dominic Grieve

Lib Dems:

Baroness Shirley Williams & Lord Tim Clement Jones

These people who in opposition had claimed to understand and promised justice have stood aside, allowing things to be made infinitely worse by reductions in Legal Aid and speeding up of Family Court & Adoption proceedings.

This called the United Kingdom to account for failure to test parenting skills. For a while some Local Authorities appeared to take notice but these days it seems to be ignored!

GCSE ABOLITION UNFAIR TO THOSE WITH DISABILITIES - e-petitions

Micheal Gove's current proposals to abolish GCSE coursework and winter repeats, will mean that many schools will not offer places at 11 to those students who may under-perform in a single high pressure exam in the summer months.

Gove's proposals will inevitably lead to more arguments between parents of chronically sick or differently abled students and the powers that be.

We all know that some of these conflicts go wrong, ending up in the courts as Child Protection cases, often with catastrophic consequences

GCSE ABOLITION UNFAIR TO THOSE WITH DISABILITIES

Responsible department: Department for Education

We request that HM Government consider the plight of students with disabilities, neurological difference or medical difficulties before making any changes to examinations at 16.

People with Asperger's Syndrome and Autism Spectrum Disorders are often society's most creative thinkers, who could enhance the future of the world - but with an exam only route to higher education many will not make it.

People with disabilities and variable medical conditions can't always peak on the day or sustain periods of high pressure, but that doesn't mean that they aren't gifted and talented.

In the post Paralympic period when we saw differently abled athletes shine - it is not the right time to set up an exam system which will discriminate against so many clever but differently abled scholars.

Set up an independent complaints committee and governing body for Social Services - e-petitions

<http://epetitions.direct.gov.uk/petitions/49539>

Responsible department: Ministry of Justice

We the undersigned would like to see the setting up of an independent complaints committee and a governing body to oversee Social Services and the Family courts. This is to ensure justice and recourse to the victims of over zealous social workers and family court judges. It will also prevent the wrongful removal of children from loving homes through forced adoption

I've tried to set up a new e-petition - if accepted I will paste the link on all relevant websites.

Investigate all potentially Misleading Allegations of Child Abuse & possible Forced Adoptions

Investigate all potentially Misleading Allegations of Child Abuse & possible Forced Adoptions

We call for an Independent Panel (like the one in the Hillsborough Inquiry) or a Parliamentary Select Committee, to investigate all potentially False & Misleading Allegations of Child Abuse and possible Forced Adoptions in the UK since the Cleveland Child Abuse Scandal of 1987.

This will require taking evidence from parents, grandparents and teenage or grown up children, as well as from their advocates and relevant voluntary bodies.

It will require release and examination of reports and documents presented to Child Protection Investigations and Family Court Proceedings.

It will also require re-examination of events and documents pertaining to the Dept of Health guidelines on MSBP / FII, following the report of Prof Rod Griffiths presented to the DoH on 8 May 2000.

It will require examination of relevant ECHR rulings including that in 2002 in the case of P,C & S v UK.

hillsborough.independent.gov.uk
/the-independent-panel/

The Hillsborough Independent Panel was established by the UK government in January 2010 to oversee the release of documents related to the 1989 Hillsborough football disaster.

Because the issue of forced adoptions and wrongful removal of children to foster care is based on documents not in the public arena, I believe that something like the Hillsborough Independent Panel is needed to bring this issue into the open.
